

CA' SELVA VIGNETI IN FRIULI

HUMANAE ARTIS NATURA MAGISTRA

Located in the Friuli Venezia Giulia region, the winery moved to a new sight in an antique construction out side Portogruaro early this year. Paolo Bergamo came in the business with his father years ago and improved the punch of the winery he produces a great choice of quality regional sparkling wines specially the Prosecco millesimato, the organic Pinot Grigio DOC and other conventional wines too cultivated on their lands in Friuli.

Situati in Friuli Venezia Giulia, l'azienda ha messo radicin in un'antica tenuta poco distante da Portogruaro. Paolo Bergamo ha iniziato l'attività con il padre anni fa e ha migliorato l'efficacia della vineria producendo un'ampia gamma qualitativamente elevata di vini regionali frizzanti, in particolare il Prosecco millesimato, il Pinot Grigio organico DOC e altri vini classici coltivati nelle terre del Friuli.

Organic Merlot

Friuli D.O.C. Grave

The Ca'Selva Organic Merlot is produced from grapes cultivated near the dolomite Alps in Northeast Italy. In the sunny hills of the Friuli region, the grapes are hand-picked and selected during the october harvest.

This Organic Merlot offers a ruby red color with light shades of violet and a maturity and character that bring to the nose a smooth, flowery bouquet-even a little hint of green vegetables. The persistent aromas linger on the palate with a round finish reminiscent of spicy jam flavors with characteristic soft tannins. Sip a glass, paired, at room temperature, with a medium cheese such as provolone. Excellent, too, with a grilled steak, game, hungarian goulash or a simple ragu with pasta.

A short history of the merlot grape

In Italy, it reminds us that Merlot was at first cultivated in Medoc the Bordeaux region of France. From there, the grape became international, exported by the French to the five continents. Cultivated in Italy since the ninth century, Merlot was nearly decimated in the 1870's by phylloxera disease. This disease present in the vines the USA was imported to Europe it killed almost 85 to 90 per cent of the vines cultivated up to a certain altitude, the solution came from the US again, the Europeans saved their vines by grafting the vines vinifera wine to American rootstock, which is still done today. The alien rootstock has no influence on the character of the grapes it is known that the soil (terroir) makes the difference.

Today, Merlot is one of the most known and appreciated red wines, blended or pure, it does not fear aging and prices with the support of a good marketing policy reach thousands of us dollars.

Organic Pinot Grigio

Friuli D.O.C. Grave

With the first sip of a Ca' Selva Organic Pinot Grigio, you will notice the superb freshness and dry crisp taste of this delightful white Organic wine with its mild green apple and slightly limy finish. Admiring the clear, straw yellow shades of the wine in your glass, the bouquet of Italian field spring flowers comes up to your nose.

Grown in the low, stony hills West of sunny Friuli, North east of Venice, these grapes produce a wine of extraordinary character and quality. The grapes are handharvested and selected, then processed the same day in the place where they are grown.

Enjoy this wonderful wine chilled, as an aperitif. Pair it with fresh cheeses, especially mozzarella, and pasta salads, chicken and seafood.

Organic Prosecco “millesimato”

Sparkling wine

This surprising Organic Prosecco “millesimato” is a sparkling wine that cannot be categorized as any another Prosecco or even as an extra dry sparkling wine.

This “millesimato” is almost a champagne. Produced in the Charmat method, but processed with a special blend of yeasts is fermented in an extremely longer time. This unique tasting wine is exuberantly fresh and very dry; the perfect toast to begin an important meal with or the wine to sip during a long, discreet conversation. Let your palate distinguish the unusual qualities of Ca' Selva Organic Prosecco “millesimato” chilled.
